

DUNBAR PRESBYTERIAN LADIES AID SOCIETY

SIGNATURE QUILT - 1929

The following list is used to document and organize the names on the "Dunbar Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society - 1929" quilt that was donated to the Chesterville and District Historical Society by Mrs. Betty Sullivan. It gives a brief history of each person who donated money towards the quilt as a fund-raiser, starting in the centre inner circle with the name of M. W. Locke M.D. as 1.1, working clockwise around the circle. (1 being the first name in sequence and then going on to the 2nd circle, etc). Names in the outer circle or ring were worth 10 cents, 15 cents on the next ring, 20 cents on the next ring and finally 25 cents on the inner and smallest ring. The total available spots for sales were 443. The quilt was made in the Dunbar home of Mary Marcellus and Myrna Marcelis with the help from other members of the Ladies Aid Society. The quilt was almost full (two open spots) and would have generated $ 66.90. Years later, the quilt showed up in Winchester and was bought at the Etcetera Antique Store by Betty Sullivan.

NOTE - The $ 66.90 in 1929 would be worth about $ 875.00 in 2013.

PROCESS

The list of names were recorded by two groups. Betty Vanden Bosch and her team recorded the names in alphabetical order and created a Power Point document to record family information supplied from local residents.

Our 2012 summer student recorded all the names in sequence starting at the top of the inner circle and working around the circle like the hands of a clock. I used this list to number the whole quilt and then used Betty's list to confirm we had all the names properly recorded.

The next step was to create an index so people could easily find a specific name of a friend or relative. Local history books like the "Time That Was", "The Crossing", "Dundas County", "The Story of Dundas" etc were used to source basic information. Using cemetery records I added specific information about the individual and his or family. Next I used census records to fill in the blanks and then added obituary notice information to supplement the file. Betty's earlier work was key in some areas where two people shared the same or similar name. We still have some names where we can not yet find their local attachment to the Dundas community.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would sincerely like to thank Betty Sullivan for donating this historic artifact to the Chesterville and District Historical Society where it can be shared with the community for many years to come. I also want to thank Betty Vanden Bosch and her team for their help in starting off this project a few years ago by interviewing local residents to get some very valuable background information. Her team is listed below:

Jim and Lila McMillan

NOTE - This document will be donated to the Chesterville and District Historical Society. It can be used as a fund raiser for the Society and local residents may purchase a copy it for a small donation to the Society. (Price to be determined once our initial research is completed for each name)

Every effort has been made to ensure accuracy in this document. However, mistakes will be made. Any errors, additions or corrections can be sent to Alec Ball for consideration in future updates of the book.

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH

DUNBAR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

3532 County Road # 7
Dunbar, Ontario

Latitude : 45.043381N

Longitude : 75.226868W

Dunbar Presbyterian Church was established in the early 1870's. The first services in Dunbar were held at the home of James Moodie, John Thompson and in Thomas Carlyle's barn. Visiting clergy and a Catechist, Mr. James Thom, ministered to the needs of the congregation during this time. Later the congregation worshipped in a Grange Hall near the residence of Walter Carlyle, the paster being Rev. Ferguson.

A wood frame church was built in 1873 largely by volunteer labour. In 1875 it became part of the new union called the Presbyterian Church in Canada. In June 1876 the first elders were selected for the Dunbar Congregation, and were ordained. In 1889 drive sheds were built and were paid for by receipts received from concerts sung by sixteen members. The first organ was installed in 1883, was upgraded by 1905 and again in 1924. In 1947 electric wiring and lighting was installed and by 1960 electric heating replaced the two wood burning box stoves.

The church celebrated their 136th anniversary on September 07, 2009 with special guest speaker Marion Johnston. The church has an Honour Roll for Veterans. Over the years, it has, at different times, been part of the pastoral charge with Colquhoun, Morewood and Chesterville. Attendance declined over the years until only ten to fifteen faithful congregation members showed up each Sunday. The house next door at one time also served as the church manse.

The church held its last service on November 21, 2010 including a ceremony to mark the sad but historic occasion of the church closure. Rev. Edward Charlton conducted the final service. It was announced at a meeting of the Presbytery of Seaway-Glengarry on November 16, 2001 in Vankleek Hill that the congregation would amalgamate with Knox Presbyterian Church in Morrisburg. After 137 years of regular Sunday service, this declining parishioner numbers and the need for costly repairs forced the closure of Dunbar Presbyterian Church.

In June 2011 South Dundas council allow the church to be purchased and converted into a private residence.
